

Master of Arts in Governance and Development (MAGD)

Application Deadline
17 August 2023

Admission Test
25 August 2023

Apply Online
admissions.bracu.ac.bd

Making Policy Work for Development

The Master of Arts in Governance and Development (MAGD) program offered by BIGD at Brac University provides a unique blend of globally acclaimed academic teaching and locally rooted practitioner insights.

The program equips promising policymakers with the capabilities to tackle multifaceted governance and development challenges with confidence.

Key Features

- Hybrid program offered from Fall 2023
- Non-residential format provides flexibility for working students
- Course load of 36 credits, can be completed in 18 months without a thesis
- Cross-learning opportunities with development programs
- Strong alumni network for support
- Tuition fee waivers available for a few selected government officials based on their performance in the admission test

Who is it for?

Government officials or individuals employed by the Government of Bangladesh with at least 2 years of work experience, or individuals engaged in a profession that requires working with the government, or professionals/academicians who analyze public policy, or individuals with a specific academic interest in public policy, governance and development-related area.

Learn more about MAGD: <https://bigd.bracu.ac.bd/academics/master-of-arts-in-governance-and-development-magd/>

For any questions or clarifications, contact us at: info.magd@bracu.ac.bd